Tell your colleagues and friends about the Executive MPA!

THE EXECUTIVE MPA is offered in a cohort model and is designed for experienced professionals who want to gain administrative leadership skills through a convenient course schedule and accelerated program of study. The cohort of professionals offers a unique opportunity for building relationships and networking during the program and far beyond. The program develops confident, innovative, ethical, and strategic leaders with the capacity for making a difference in government, nonprofit, and private administration.

COMPARATIVE INTERNATIONAL EXPERIENCE are an important part of the program. The Marxe School fully funds a short intensive international course for each EMPA student. Prior cohorts, for example, have attended universities in Brussels, Hanoi, and Milan. Students have the opportunity to meet with local government, nonprofit, and private sector leaders on site visits. The experience strengthens students’ understanding of how different cultures and forms of government address policy and management challenges as compared with the U.S. approach.

FOCUS ON CURRENT ISSUES confronting administrative professionals. Skills are developed in budgeting, communications, economics, management, and research methods, among others. The Marxe School’s distinguished faculty are joined in the classroom with expert practitioners as either co-instructors or guest speakers in order to bring real-world knowledge to pedagogy.

SIGNIFICANT NUMBERS of EMPA students have been promoted or have changed jobs by the time they graduate and many more do so afterwards. Students become a part of an extensive alumni network that includes high-level administrators at various public, private, and nonprofit organizations.
